Memo 2 Sanskrit Education

There are 2 Sanskrit colleges, one in Bangalore established in the memory of late Maharaja and the other in Mysore. There is one Oriental Library the Mysore Sanskrit pandits are employed in all these 3 institutions. The study of Sanskrit is in no way less to that English and other languages, classical & Vernacular Sanskrit is highly appreciated in Germany by foreigners whom but it is neglected in its mother country, because it is not paying or securing livelihood yet can be Supreme Knowledge & pleasure & derived from the study of Sanskrit be denied by any literary student. The study of other languages is only superficial & makes a man selfish, merciless, proud, fond of Luxury & unsympathetic. whereas the study of Sanskrit makes a man moral, virtuous, disinterested & simple in habits. Hence the encouragement of the Sanskrit study is very beneficial. Therefore the provision allotted for other languages should be equally allotted to Sanskrit & the Status of Sanskrit Pandits & teachers should be raised to the level of other teachers. In spite of this the proposals made by committees from time to time are not yet brought to light by the authorities for final orders. It is therefore a pity that such a Pandits and teachers of Sanskrit Education are neglected encouragement in these hard days of scarcity. The oriental Library curators place fell Vacant one year ago and the authorities have not yet found a man for it. It is true done themselves how many true pandits & teachers would have * Secured promotions and appointment. Also an intelligent & Educated curator could have made improvements. The author rules did not fill up for a man of their stamp, & materials please them & not been yet Secured. This is a deplorable -ful omission on their part. It is hoped that the question now in
